

Reflections on today's modern skilled nurse. Have we reached the goal? Have we fulfilled the dream?

Ekaterini Halarie

Northumbria of University, USA

As 2020 marks the year dedicated to Nurses and Midwives worldwide, and as the latest health crisis has affected the lives of most, if not all, people around the globe, there is undoubtedly need for reflection and contemplation. Nurses worldwide had revealed tremendous courage and heroism. As reflective practitioners there is need to shed light upon the professional paths we followed, to evaluate our arreas of strength and weaknesses, to assess our professional image in which we have evolved, personally and collectively. To reconsider the basics of theory, in the times of working within the highest skilled clinical environment. In which ways we had fulfilled our personal and professional goals? Have we reached the dream? Have we arrived to the height?